Current Responsibility

Brian Fomby is a principal with the Life Technology Solutions (LTS) Practice. He has been with Milliman since 2015. Brian is currently chief of staff for the LTS Practice, which develops, implements, and supports enterprise actuarial systems for life insurance companies. In his role as chief of staff, Brian oversees many of the day-to-day operations within the practice.

Professional Work Experience

Brian joined Milliman in 2015 as a sales executive and relationship manager. He is responsible for managing relationships across a large swath of U.S. clients and helping to drive sales activity for the entire suite of LTS products.

Prior to joining Milliman, Brian held various actuarial roles from valuation to pricing to modeling for a large U.S.-based voluntary benefits carrier. In his most recent assignment before joining Milliman, Brian was part of a newly established global modeling team and led the development and implementation of a new model governance framework as part of an actuarial transformation initiative.
